

Initial conditions:

$$N > 0, M > 0, M < N$$

Every time through the loop:

$$N, M = M, N \bmod M$$

Both M and N always decrease because $M < N$ and $N \bmod M < M$ (only if initial conditions hold true.)

Therefore, if M always decreases, it will eventually reach 0 and the loop will terminate.